RE: Bachelor of Technology in Technology Management

Dear Dr. Varughese:

We have recently reviewed the curriculum of NAIT's Bachelor of Technology in Technology Management. This four-year degree program meets the standard admission requirements for our Master of Business Administration in Community Economic Development - MBA in CED program.

NAIT's program provides foundation skills in technical disciplines and in critical thinking and analysis; knowledge and skills that can be built upon at the graduate level in the MBA in CED program.

Students in the MBA in CED program come from a wide range of backgrounds and interests, such as engineering, human resource management, education, public services, healthcare, entrepreneurship, finance, and national defence.

We do have a few engineers and a few technologists in our MBA program, and we will welcome applications from graduates of the Bachelor of Technology in Technology Management program. Their applications will be favorably considered for admission into the MBA in CED program, subject to the standard entrance requirements.

If I can be of any further assistance or provide additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,
